CAREER CENTER
SERVICES, PROGRAMS, AND RESOURCES

Through advisement, resources, and programming, the Career Center supports undergraduate and graduate students, as well as alumni, through every step of their career development process as they explore career interests and options, gain experience, develop a professional network, conduct a job/internship search, and apply to graduate/professional school.

Appointments and Walk-ins

- Appointments are scheduled on the hour for one hour increments. Appointments are required for career planning and mock interviews (call the Career Center to schedule an appointment)
- Walk-ins last for 10-15 minutes on a first-come, first-served basis (see website for walk-in schedule)

Appointment and Walk-in topics include:
- Career Planning (pg. 3-4): explore values, interests, skills, and personality traits; utilize career assessments, gather information via print and online resources; and identify major/career options
- Graduate/Professional School (pg. 5-6): gather information on programs and schools, learn about the application process, review materials, and evaluate if continuing education is the next step
- Interviewing/Mock Interview (pg. 11-14): discuss the interview process and/or participate in a practice interview to receive feedback, develop skills, and identify strengths and areas for improvement
- Job/Internship Search (pg. 9-10; 15-16): learn how and where to find available opportunities, become familiar with the processes, develop and review materials, and explore strategies and resources
- Networking (pg. 17-21): develop strategies to expand a professional network, explore current fields, clarify career goals, and learn about specific occupations and opportunities
- Resume/Cover Letter (pg. 25-40): review application materials and learn how to effectively represent education, experience, and skills to potential employers and/or graduate schools

Career Resource Collection

- The Career Resource Room contains 500+ books and other publications related to interests, majors, careers, internships, interviewing, job search, networking, salary, transitions, and graduate/professional school
- eBook Collection containing information 70+ career fields including an overview, educational requirements, position description, compensation, etc.

- Meet with Career Center staff to learn about opportunities, discuss your goals, and identify your next steps

As of July 2017, reflects both students & alumni
Other search criteria include: Where they live, Where they work, & What they do
The decision to attend graduate or professional school should be based on a genuine interest to pursue a concentrated field of study. Since it is important to find the right “fit” when choosing a school, take time to explore your goals, assess your degree of passion, and know how committed you are to this field. Attending graduate or professional school will require a significant amount of time and money so consider how your academic pursuits relate to your employment goals.

Examine Career Goals
- Define your career objectives and explore if an advanced degree will help you accomplish your goals
- Speak with faculty in your area of interest about what their experiences have been in order to get a clearer picture of the career field
- Conduct informational interviews with people employed in the field; ask what type of education/degree is required or recommended, and what steps they took to get their current position

Gather Information on Prospective Schools
- Use print and online resources to find colleges that offer the degree you want to pursue
- Search school websites for more detailed information regarding their requirements, application process, financial assistance, etc. (e.g. GREs, rolling admission, deadlines)
- Look at specific course offerings in college catalogs to see if they match your interests
- Attend graduate/professional school fairs, open houses, and information sessions (on-campus or online)
- Visit campuses and check out their libraries, computer labs, student services, meet faculty, etc.
- Utilize LinkedIn to research graduate programs and connect with alumni from your prospective program
- Research program and institution accreditation status

Inquire About Admission Requirements
- Look for schools whose admission requirements match your skill levels and abilities
- Determine if entrance exams are required and begin to prepare accordingly
- Research undergraduate prerequisite coursework requirements
- Inquire about admission deadlines and submit applications in a timely fashion (Note: deadlines may vary by academic program within the same institution)
- Prepare your personal statement for admission applications; we encourage you to utilize the Writing Center

Consider School Size and Location
- Decide what size institution best suits your needs (e.g. faculty/student ratio, student population, setting)
- Determine how personal, family, and work commitments factor into your decision
- Research available campus housing or the cost of off-campus living expenses

Look for a Good Fit
- Ensure that the program's philosophy/focus reflects your interests
- Talk with department administrators, faculty, alumni, and enrolled students to get a feel for the program
- Inquire about the faculty's expertise in your particular area of interest
- Learn about the advisement process, internship opportunities, and career services
More than 1/3 of Saint Rose undergraduates reported that they were attending graduate/professional school within one year after graduation

- Recruiting: Employers interested in connecting with and/or interviewing students and alumni via Employer Information Tables, Employer Information Sessions, Resume Collections, and On-Campus Interviews

The Career Center makes every effort to screen employers and job postings on HireStRose; however, we cannot guarantee that every employer and posting is a legitimate posting or organization. The ultimate responsibility for researching a potential employer and opportunity lies with the applicant. Job scams are designed to take advantage of job hunters seeking to find employment. We encourage you to be aware of these scams and advise you to never disclose bank, financial, or any other personal information. If any potential “employer” asks you for money, payments, or transactions of any type, please notify our office immediately.

Internships are structured learning experiences in a professional environment that can supplement your classroom learning and provide you with an avenue to explore career opportunities. Internships come in a variety of forms including paid, academic credit, volunteer, part-time or full-time, summer/winter breaks, or during the academic year. The experience you gain by completing one or more internships will help you establish valuable networking opportunities, enhance your resume, and increase your professional skills and knowledge.

PLEASE NOTE: If you are interested in receiving academic credit for an internship, consult with your academic advisor or department’s internship/field placement coordinator.

PREPARING FOR AN INTERNSHIP

Self-Reflection
- Why are you interested in having an internship experience? Is it a degree requirement? Are you seeking an experience that will compliment your education?
- What areas of interest would you like to explore and what skills would you like to develop/improve?
- What personal and professional goals would you like to achieve?
- How will you be able to manage other aspects of your life (classes, jobs, family responsibilities, etc.) while completing an internship?

Exploring Opportunities
- Network with individuals you know, including friends, family, colleagues, and professors to let them know you are seeking internship experiences; they may have insight into potential opportunities
- Use resources such as HireStRose, Career Resource Room, LinkedIn, Career Advisory Network, and other online and print resources
- Conduct informational interviews with individuals in your internship areas of interest

Applying for Internships
- The internship search process is very similar to the job search process – see the Job/Internship Search Section
- Ensure your resume and cover letter are up to date and are tailored to your internship interests; stop in to the Career Center to get feedback on how you are marketing your education, skills, and experiences
- Be ready to explain why you are interested in interning for a specific company, person, or organization

Before Starting Your Internship
- Identify personal and professional objectives as well as projects you wish to work on during your internship and share them with your supervisor, when appropriate
- Consider time commitments and make sure you review your schedule; identifying where you will have time to complete homework and personal responsibilities, when applicable
- Inquire about the dress code at your internship site and be sure to have appropriate clothing
- Connect with your site supervisor to inquire about any materials to be completed prior to starting your internship

500+ internships are posted through the Career Center each year! See additional internship resources at www.strose.edu/careercenter
THE INTERNSHIP EXPERIENCE

Workplace Interactions

- Address your supervisor as Mr. or Ms. unless you are given permission to address him/her by his/her first name
- Be sure to arrive on time every day and stay until it is time to leave. If you are going to be late or need to leave early for an important reason, be sure to let your supervisor know in advance, if possible
- Show respect to everyone you interact with throughout your internship
- Perform every task, no matter how small (e.g. data entry, filing, copying) to the best of your ability
- Communicate any scheduling conflicts with your site and/or college supervisors
- Schedule regular meetings with your supervisor(s) to discuss your projects and progress
- Develop professional relationships with as many individuals at your internship site as possible; you want people to remember your work, your personality, and your initiative; internships are a great networking opportunity
- Remember that your last impression is just as important as your first impression

Responsibilities and Projects

- When assigned projects, always ask about the deadlines to help with prioritizing
- Once tasks/projects are completed, check in with your supervisor or other employees and ask if you can provide additional assistance
- If you find you are really enjoying a particular project, let your supervisor know so they can keep you in mind for similar tasks in the future
- Challenge yourself, develop skills, and enhance your knowledge
- Ask for guidance if you are unsure of how to proceed with the project
- Offer your perspective on projects, when appropriate

Social Etiquette and Professionalism

- Maintain professionalism when interacting with other interns, be wary of workplace gossip, and remember you may be competing with other interns for the same permanent position at the company/organization
- Be on your best behavior at work-related functions and use them as opportunities to network
- Connect with colleagues and supervisors on LinkedIn and other professional social media platforms; these interactions will make an impression on those you connect with, so make sure it is a positive one
- Office property and work hours are not for personal use; avoid doing homework or checking your cell phone, personal e-mail, and/or social media accounts

AFTER THE INTERNSHIP

- Evaluate your performance and your progress toward your personal/professional goals
- Ask your supervisor for feedback on your performance as an intern
- Thank your supervisor and other employees for the opportunity
- Ask your supervisor if they would be willing to serve as a positive reference
- Stay connected with your internship co-workers to help maintain your professional network

2 out of 3 interns in 2017 were offered employment by the organization at which they interned.
(National Association of Colleges & Employers (NACE), 2017 Internship & Co-op Survey)
Interviewing is one of the most important parts of your job/internship search. The purpose of the interview, from the employer’s perspective, is to further determine your capabilities for a specific position and assess how well you might fit into the organization. By developing strong interviewing skills, you can effectively convey interest in the position/employer and convince the employer that you are the best person for the position. The interview will also give you the opportunity to learn more about the position/employer and assist you in making a decision on whether or not to pursue a particular position/employer. Take the opportunity to ask questions and learn as much as you can about the position and the employer.

BEFORE THE INTERVIEW

Know Yourself

- Determine your strengths, weaknesses, goals, qualifications, and experiences
- Know why you want to work in the field and prepare a game plan or strategy for each interview; make sure you share the most relevant information

  Practice Question: What is your weakness?

  HINT: Share an appropriate weakness and how you are improving upon it.

Research

- Visit the employer’s website, LinkedIn profile, and follow the employer’s social media accounts to review the organization’s mission statements, annual reports, etc.
- Conduct a web search of the employer to see publications in which they are featured (e.g. The Albany Business Review, Google Alerts)
- Stay up to date and be familiar with current trends in your field
- Know with whom you will be interviewing and what interview format to expect (you may ask these questions when you are scheduling your interview)
- Research salaries for similar positions, so that you are prepared to discuss compensation
- Utilize Career Center Resource Room and web resources such as eBooks, GoinGlobal, Vault, etc.

Practice

- Practice by reviewing questions that are commonly asked by both the interviewer and interviewee
- Have an introductory remark prepared; don’t let the “tell us about yourself” question throw you
- Schedule a mock interview with the Career Center

Practice: “Tell me about yourself.”
This question offers an opportunity to describe yourself positively and direct the interview toward your strengths related to the position.

- Focus on what would most interest the employer about you (avoid your favorite color, food, etc.)
- Highlight your most important accomplishments that relate to the position or your career path (degrees awarded, direct experiences, specific skills)
- Do your best not to repeat your resume
- Be brief; this is an introduction rather than a speech (try to keep it under a minute)
THE ACTUAL INTERVIEW

Attire
- We recommend business professional attire (e.g. a two-piece matched suit) for job interviews; remember your interview attire may not reflect your day-to-day work wardrobe
- Be conservative when selecting interview apparel and ensure that clothing is well-fitting, wrinkle-free, and that footwear is professional but comfortable
- Keep accessories, jewelry, makeup, and fragrances to a minimum

Make a Positive First Impression
- Arrive at least 10-15 minutes early and be courteous to everyone, including the receptionist
- Greet the interviewer with a firm handshake and smile
- Introduce yourself and use the interviewer’s last name (i.e. “Nice to meet you, Ms. Martinez.”)

It Is Not Just What You Say – But How You Say It
- Give positive non-verbal cues (e.g. maintain eye contact, confident posture) and minimize any nervous habits
- Let the interviewer(s) guide the interview and avoid interrupting or dominating the interview
- Listen attentively and answer the questions clearly; if you don’t understand the question, ask for clarification
- Present responses in a positive light and avoid criticism of former employers and co-workers; steer clear of discussing controversial topics and/or family, personal or financial problems
- Avoid using filler words and phrases such as: you know, okay, right, um, and like

Sell Yourself
- Be prepared to state why you are the best candidate for the position
- Articulate why you are interested in this position, field, and employer
- Respond with success stories or experiences that describe your assets and emphasize your achievements
- Keep your answers to the point
- Summarize your qualifications, restate your interest, and end on a positive note
- Be yourself; let the interviewer get to know you

End on a Strong Note
- Ask appropriate and informed questions based on your research of the company, organization, or industry
- Take the opportunity to find out as much as you can about the details of the position and organization
- Let the interviewer initiate the discussion about salary and benefits
- Be sure to get the correct spelling of the name and the title of each interviewer
- Find out when a decision is expected to be made and what will be the next steps in the process
- Thank the interviewer for his/her time and interest at the end of the interview

AFTER THE INTERVIEW

Reflect on the Interview and Your Performance
- What did you handle well? Poorly? What questions were you unprepared for?
- Is there any relevant information that you did not have a chance to discuss?
- Learn from the process by talking to others about your experience

Follow-Up
- Send a thank you letter to the interviewer(s) within 48 hours of the interview
- Some employers may tell you when you can expect to hear from them. If not, follow-up with a phone call if you have not heard anything

Quick Fact: Employers say that a thank you letter can increase the chance of getting hired

TIP: Handwritten or typed letters sent by mail are best. If time is limited, or the employer is located far away, an email works well. See the Career Center Handbook section on Thank You Letters for guidance.
Interviewing is a learned skill and with practice you can develop the confidence and comfort level needed to excel during the interview process.

Purpose of the Mock Interview

- Prepare for part-time, full-time, internship, graduate/professional school interviews
- Present and demonstrate non-verbal and verbal communication skills
- Identify your strengths and areas for growth
- Receive constructive feedback from Career Center staff
- Develop skills that enhance your candidacy for employment/graduate school

What is a Mock Interview?

- A one-on-one hour long session with a 20-25 minute interview with traditional and behavioral based questions tailored to your specific career field or graduate/professional school program
- A discussion period with a Career Center staff member who will provide constructive feedback on your verbal and non-verbal communication skills

Scheduling a Mock Interview

- Contact the Career Center in person or by phone
- Provide your name, major, class year, position or area of interest, and phone number

What to Bring

- Resume - It helps the interviewer prepare questions to address your education/rexperiences
- Job Description - Bring a job description of a position that you are qualified for and interested in so that we can tailor questions to the position
- 8cm DVD-R (Recordable DVD; see photo on right) - If you would like the session to be recorded
- Professional Attire - Dress in the same professional manner as you would for an interview with an employer; if you have any questions about interview attire, the mock interview is a great time to ask our Career Center staff

Preparing for a Mock Interview

- Treat the mock interview as an interview with an employer
- Know your strengths and weaknesses, career field of interest, and the employer
- Use this experience as an opportunity to sell your skills
- Review our Interviewing handout and the Commonly Asked Questions section
- Bring questions that you would ask employers and/or graduate schools

Day of Mock Interview

- Check in at the Career Center front desk 10-15 minutes prior to your scheduled time
- Relax and be yourself
SAMPLE INTERVIEW QUESTIONS

Common Questions

- Tell me about yourself.

- What opportunities are available for employees to advance their education?
- How will my performance be evaluated? By whom? How often?
- What strengths do you look for in potential employees for your organization?
- What is the retention rate of people in the position for which I am interviewing?
- What are some assignments I might expect during the first six months on the job?
- What type of training program is there for new employees?
- What challenges face the company/district today? What is the single largest problem facing your staff/department right now?
- Where are you in the search process? What is the next step?
There is no specific length of time that it takes to obtain employment. Each person’s experience is different; try not to measure your success against another job seeker.

The Career Center makes every effort to screen employers and job postings, however, we cannot guarantee that every employer and posting is legitimate. The ultimate responsibility for researching potential employers and opportunities lies with the applicant. Job scams are designed to take advantage of job hunters seeking employment. We encourage you to be aware of these scams and advise you to never disclose bank, financial, or any other personal information. If any potential “employer” asks you for money, payment, or transactions of any type, please notify our office immediately.

Networking is the process of making connections, sharing information, and building relationships. Successful networking includes having many meaningful contacts. It is a critical tool that will benefit you throughout your career. Networking is a great way to explore current fields, clarify your career goals, and learn about positions in the career fields you are exploring. Through networking you can obtain up-to-date information about organizations and/or industries, develop your interviewing skills and self-confidence while also establishing and expanding your professional connections. You will obtain information, meet people in your field, and potentially uncover unadvertised positions.

Develop a Network

- Think of individuals who might be a good professional resource including family, friends, classmates, professors, alumni, former employers, etc.
- Connect with professional organizations to learn more about your career field
- Connect with Saint Rose students and alumni via LinkedIn, Career Advisory Network, the Professional Connections program, and at events like Career Roundtables and Etiquette Dinner
- Join groups on LinkedIn, including “The College of Saint Rose Career Center” where you can connect with students, alumni, and friends of the College for career related information
- Follow the Career Center and other professional groups on social media platforms, including LinkedIn, Facebook, and Twitter

Prepare to Network

- Decide what information you want to obtain from your network and formulate appropriate questions
- Be prepared to discuss your skills, experiences, education, interests, and why you want to work in a specific position and/or industry

Network

- Contact the person by phone, e-mail, or LinkedIn; tell them how you found their name/contact information
- Be professional, respectful of time, and express your appreciation; if meeting in person be sure to dress appropriately, arrive early, and shake hands (and don’t forget to smile!)
- Be prepared to lead the conversation; discuss career fields, opportunities, and solicit advice and recommendations
- Ask for names of additional people to contact for more information

Follow-Up

- Send a thank you note and be sure to mention something you learned during your interaction
- Follow through on leads and contacts, keeping detailed records of names and meetings
- Keep your network of contacts informed when you reach out to the people that they suggested
- Review the information you have gathered and determine whether or not it has changed or reaffirmed your current career direction

Did you know that many job and internship openings are not posted on job/internship search sites but rather filled through networking?
CAREER ADVISORY NETWORK (C.A.N.)

The College of Saint Rose Career Advisory Network (C.A.N.) is the Career Center's professional networking community on LinkedIn for students, alumni, employers, and other friends of the College. Members of this group are looking to connect with one another in order to offer or gain advice around career related topics.

We encourage members to start discussions and connect with group members directly about the information you are hoping to obtain. C.A.N. is a great opportunity to explore career fields and network with professionals.

New to the Career Advisory Network (C.A.N.)
- Create or sign-in to your LinkedIn Account at www.linkedin.com
- Search and request to join “The College of Saint Rose Career Center” Group
- Once your request has been accepted, search for and join “The College of Saint Rose Career Advisory Network” on the bottom right hand section of the page

Member of the Career Advisory Network (C.A.N.)
- Find “The College of Saint Rose Career Advisory Network” by accessing “Groups” under the “Work” menu or searching by group title

Please Note: C.A.N. may not be utilized under any circumstances for advertising or solicitation purposes. Any use of this nature will result in termination of all privileges related to the program.

PROFESSIONAL CONNECTIONS

The College of Saint Rose Professional Connections program creates a networking opportunity where current students and recent alumni can draw upon the knowledge, skills, and perspective of an experienced professional. This connection can provide guidance and feedback while facilitating self-reflection and self-awareness.

The Professional Connections program is a way to grow your personal and professional skill set and also expand your network. You will be expected to maintain regular contact, be responsive, and follow through with set commitments.

By participating in the program, we hope that you will:
- Talk to a professional about choosing a major, career, graduate or professional school, etc.
- Learn more about a specific industry or career field
- Gain perspective and support on academic pursuits and challenges
- Develop insight about how to make the most of your time at Saint Rose and beyond
- Utilize this opportunity to cultivate a relationship over time

For additional information and how to participate in Professional Connections visit the Career Center website at www.strose.edu/careercenter Students > Networking Resources > Professional Connections
LinkedIn is the largest professional network site with over 500 million users from over 200 countries. Over 40 million students and recent college graduates are LinkedIn members. Additional information about LinkedIn can be found on the Career Center website: www.strose.edu/careercenter (Students > Networking Resources > LinkedIn).

LinkedIn is a great tool for connecting with alumni and professionals in your field and can also be useful throughout your career whether you are exploring career options, searching for a job or internship, looking for professional development opportunities or maintaining professional relationships. LinkedIn can help you with:

- Career Planning – View profiles of professionals who have completed the degree you are pursuing and research their career path; join groups to follow discussions or ask professionals questions
- Job/Internship Search – Visit www.linkedin.com/jobs to access jobs and internships for students and recent graduates; research employers by visiting their LinkedIn Company page
- Graduate School Search – Find graduate/professional schools by searching for the institution; this will provide basic information about the institution and connect you with their current students and alumni

Networking on LinkedIn

- Build your professional profile: use a professional photo, write an informative profile headline, complete the summary, education, and experience sections
- Enhance your profile by asking for recommendations from professional connections; completing other LinkedIn sections including but not limited to courses, honors and awards, projects, skills, professional development and volunteer activities; include academic and professional videos, images, and documents
- Customize your requests to connect by including a personalized message; give a little bit of an introduction of yourself if necessary and briefly mention why you would like to connect
- Join and participate in groups to connect with colleagues and other professionals
- Just having a LinkedIn profile does not help to improve your networking; engage in conversations and interact with professionals directly or in groups on LinkedIn
- View the LinkedIn profiles of companies; learn about their size, location, news, employees, and more
- Utilize resources on LinkedIn to prepare for informational or job/internship interviews
- Maintain an up-to-date profile to ensure an accurate description of your education and professional experiences

LinkedIn Alumni Tool

- Visit www.linkedin.com/alumni to see alumni profiles which include their education, places of employment, job descriptions, volunteer involvement, skills, LinkedIn groups, and more
- Search the alumni page with criteria such as where they live, where they work, what they do, what they studied, what they’re skilled at, and how you are connected

As of July 2017
SOCIAL MEDIA (Facebook, Twitter, etc.)

Social media sites like Facebook, Twitter, etc., have changed the way that we network. These sites make it easier to connect with industry professionals, become familiar with trends, participate in conversations with industry newcomers and more experienced professionals as well as share and learn about news and content. You can also learn about job/internship opportunities on many of these sites.

Networking on Social Media

- Establish a professional presence with an appropriate photo and username/handle
- Craft a brief professional statement for your header or a description about you on your profile
- Follow professionals and influencers in your field, relevant organizations, or employers
- Keep your profile public if you wish for other professionals to read your content; be sure your posts are relevant and appropriate
- Most of the information you share should be insightful and relevant to your field including articles, blogs, accomplishments, and conference and event information
- Be an active supporter of those you follow by sharing what others have posted
- Although hashtags began as a way to tag conversations in Twitter, most social media sites have adopted hashtags so that people with similar interests can find your posts (e.g. #HireStRose)
- Tagging other relevant users on these sites can help encourage interaction and engagement with the content you share, as well as give credit to the original source of shared content (e.g. @CSRCareerCenter)
- Remember that each platform has its strengths; decide which site works best for your brand and/or message
- While it is important to be relevant in social media, don’t get overwhelmed by feeling like you need to have an active presence on every platform; choose the platform(s) that works best for your needs and maintain a consistent presence there since it is better to have a consistent presence on one or two sites, rather than be spread thin on several
- Whether or not you decide to use social media as part of your job/internship search, it is important to ensure that your social media presence is employer friendly; employers are looking at potential hires on social media, so be sure to review your pages to ensure your content is appropriate; also be sure to check your privacy settings, and conduct a web search of yourself to see what information/images appear

Don’t be caught off guard!

Google yourself and see what information, images, and videos are out there for prospective employers to see.
SAMPLE NETWORKING QUESTIONS

When networking, you want to convey your professionalism and plan your questions carefully. Try to ask open-ended questions and tailor them to your situation and the position. Be ready to ask follow-up questions when appropriate.

Career Paths
- How/why did you decide to pursue the career in which you are working?
- What was your undergraduate major? How did it help prepare you for your career? What additional training/education have you had?
- Where can someone in an entry-level position in this field expect to be in two years? Five years? Ten years?
- Are job prospects good, stable, or very competitive in this industry?
- Could you tell me about any new developments in the field?

Job Content and Responsibilities
- What are some of the regular tasks and activities involved in this occupation?
- What skills and abilities are desired to be successful in this field?
- Could you describe the typical work environment in this industry?
- Which times of the year are the most challenging in your position? Why?

Career Preparation
- What do you like the most and least about the industry? About the job? About the company?
- What is the best professional resource you have utilized recently?
- Are there newsletters or other publications that list internships, jobs, and contacts for this field?
- Are you a member of any professional organizations?
- What advice would you offer to someone trying to break into this industry?
- What local organizations employ people in (occupation)?
- Do you know of any meetings, conferences, or other networking opportunities coming up that I could attend?
- What is the best way to apply for internships/jobs in this field?
- How can students find jobs or internships in your field?
- What is the range for entry-level (or whatever is appropriate) salaries for this type of job?
- How would you approach a job search for this organization or industry?
- Do you have any suggestions on how I might strengthen my resume?
- Can you recommend any colleagues of yours with whom I could connect? May I mention our meeting when contacting them?

During the fall and spring semesters, employers participate in our Recruiting Program to meet with and/or interview undergraduate, graduate students, and alumni. Employers recruit through Employer Information Tables, Employer Information Sessions, Resume Collections, and On-Campus Interviews. The Career Center staff advertises and promotes employer visits through our website, fliers, The Chronicle, digital signage, Blackboard, bulletin boards, social media, and targeted emails to students, alumni, and faculty who are on HireStRose.

The Recruiting Schedule is updated weekly and available on HireStRose > Events

Visit www.strose.edu/careercenter to log in

Employer Information Tables

- Stop by and speak with employers about their organization and potential full-time and/or part-time employment, internship, and volunteer opportunities
- Employer Information Tables are located in the Events and Athletics Center (EAC), outside of the Camelot Room

Employer Information Sessions

- Formal presentations by employers that provide information about their organization and potential internship/employment opportunities
- Most Employer Information Sessions are located in the Career Center Resource Room

Resume Collections

- Employers request to collect application materials for available opportunities
- Find Resume Collection announcements on HireStRose
- Submit all requested materials through HireStRose by the specified deadline
- Candidate materials (resume, cover letter, etc.) are reviewed by the employer

On-Campus Interviews

- Employer led on-campus interviews are held in the Career Center and are tailored to the employer’s schedule
- Employers either “pre-select” students via a Resume Collection or choose an “open” format (any interested student can interview)
- Chosen students will be contacted by the employer or Career Center staff to arrange an interview
- Cancellations and no-shows are strongly discouraged and may impact your future participation in recruiting activities

We strongly encourage you to have your resume and other application materials reviewed by the Career Center.

A resume is a basic tool used in a job/internship search and should include a summary of your education, experiences, and skills. This document is your opportunity to present your best qualifications and accomplishments that demonstrate your potential for future success. Be sure to present a concise picture of your experiences and education as they relate to your career goals. You may receive varying feedback from multiple reviewers; there is no single “right way” to compose and structure your resume since each individual’s experiences and career goals are unique. The Career Center provides feedback on resume layout and content often based on feedback we receive from hiring organizations.

INFORMATION TO INCLUDE

There are no clear-cut rules about the exact information that should be included on a resume in the United States. Certain categories of information are important, while others can be omitted, depending on the position and personal preferences. International application materials may vary; see GoinGlobal for more information (login at HireStRose).

Header
- Full name (avoid nicknames when possible)
- Street address, Box #
- City, State (postal abbreviations acceptable), Zip Code
- Area code and telephone number
- E-mail address (should be professional and not include hyperlinks on printed materials)
- Website links (e.g. LinkedIn profile, portfolio)

Objective (Optional)

An objective states your career goals and gives your resume a focus. If you are concerned about your objective being too limited, prepare several resumes with different objectives and tailor them to fit each position. You could also choose to not include this section and explain your objective in your cover letter.

An objective should be:
- Clear and concise
- Consistent with the accomplishments/skills demonstrated on your resume
- Stated with specific goals

Examples:
- “To obtain a Management Trainee position at General Electric”
- “To obtain a position as a Kindergarten Teacher at New School Elementary”

Education - start with your most recent degree and for each degree include:
- Complete name of the degree received or working towards (i.e. Bachelor of Arts in Psychology)
- Colleges/universities from which you have already received a degree or are in progress of earning a degree (include city and state)
- Date of graduation (include graduation month and year)
- Minors and/or any concentrations
- G.P.A. (optional)
- Honors or awards*
- Study abroad experiences*
- Relevant coursework* (include course title, not the course number)

*Note: These may be a separate section

Certification/Licensure
- List any relevant certifications and/or licensures related to your objective and date received

Example:
- New York State Initial Certification in Literacy, Birth-Grade 6, pending graduation
- New York State Initial Certification in Childhood Education, Grades 1-6, June 2017
Experience

This section should include all relevant experiences such as paid employment, volunteer service, internship, student teaching, clinical practicum, etc. Employers want to know your skills and what you can do on the job.

This area can be titled EXPERIENCE or it can be divided into separate sections based on the relevance to your objective/career goal.

Example: TEACHING EXPERIENCE (with the objective being to obtain a position as a teacher)

Under each “EXPERIENCE” section, starting with your most recent job, list each position and include:
- Your title
- Company or organization official name
- City, State
- Dates of Employment (month and year)
- Bulleted, fragmented action statements highlighting your accomplishments/skills/responsibilities
  - Use consistent verb tenses within each experience being described

Skills

- Languages and fluency level
- Computer software (Microsoft Word, Excel, Access, PowerPoint; Adobe Photoshop, Illustrator, InDesign; industry specific programs)
- CPR, First Aid, and AED
- Industry Specific Skills (e.g. broadcasting equipment, laboratory techniques, assessment instruments, etc.)

Potential Sections – examples of additional category headings

- Athletic Experience
- Employment History
- Extracurricular Activities
- Honors and Awards
- Leadership Experience
- Professional Affiliations
- Professional Development
- Research or Publications
- Volunteer/Community Service

INFORMATION NOT TO INCLUDE

Do Not Include References

- The statement “References Available Upon Request” is unnecessary to be printed on your resume
- Reference information should be a separate document including the references’ names, titles, employers, addresses, phone numbers, e-mails, and relationships if unclear

Do Not Include Personal Information (on a U.S. resume)

- Age, height, weight
- Photographs or images
- Marital status, parent or family information
- Ethnicity, race
- Social Security Number
- Personal qualities/soft skills (e.g. hard working, energetic, enthusiastic, etc.)
Remembering all the important information you should include on your resume can be difficult. Below you will find a workspace to begin brainstorming and write reminders that will help you as you build and write your resume. Not all categories may apply to you, but take the time to think about your current and past experiences.

- Computer software and language competencies
- Substantiated by experiences
- Consistent with objective
- Concrete and tangible, not soft skills

Appearance and Organization
- Easy to read
- Clear and concise
- Print is only on ONE-SIDE of page
- Pages are not stapled together
- High quality, appropriate paper (white or neutral)
- Bullets, spacing, etc. are in alignment

Format/Layout
- One readable, professional font
- Margins are appropriate and consistent
- 10-12 point font, name can be larger
- No more than two font styles are used (e.g. bold)
- Bolding, italics, capitalization are minimal and consistent
- Information fills page but is not overcrowded
- Bullets are used to separate action statements
- Resume does not include graphics, pictures, or colors
- Abbreviations are not used (except states and G.P.A.)
- Hyperlinks are removed on printed materials

Content
- Action verb words are descriptive and varied
- Marketable skills articulated
- Achievements are stressed, not tasks
- Honest, positive, enthusiastic language
- Experiences are accurate, not exaggerated
- Descriptions are fragmented, not complete sentences
- Is current and updated

Grammar
- No grammatical or spelling errors
- Current job is in present tense
- All statements in one position are the same tense
- Minimal use of repetitive words
- Consistent capitalization, punctuation, and spacing
- There is no inappropriate personal information (i.e. height, race, nationality)
- “I” statements are not used
- Verb tenses are correct and consistent

Remember: DO NOT include personal information including age, height, weight, nationality, race, ethnicity, Social Security Number, photographs, marital status, parent or family information on a U.S. resume.
WRITING RESULT ORIENTED STATEMENTS FOR YOUR RESUME

Using Action Verbs to Describe Skills

Write statements on a resume that convey accomplishments, skills, and responsibilities to the potential employer in the most effective way. Ultimately, you want to provide active descriptions that outline goal-oriented results in order to market your unique experiences to the employer.

Focus on using action verbs to describe dynamic, specific tasks in your statements instead of general verbs and adjectives. Demonstrate what makes you unique from all other job seekers. Below are examples of ways to strengthen the descriptions:

Poor: Duties included working with gifted students
Better: Organized and initiated individualized language programs for gifted students

- What duties?
- What did they result in?
- How did they fit into working with gifted students?

BEST: Organized and initiated individualized language program for a group of 15 gifted students, culminating in a successful book-publishing project

Poor: Customer Service
Better: Provided customer service to assist with client banking needs

- What were the bank services?
- Were there policies/procedures?
- What did it result in?

BEST: Provided customer service through resolution of problems, explanation of bank services and policies, and knowledge of financial planning, resulting in greater customer satisfaction

Poor: Department Manager
Better: Managed department and recruited participants

- How did you manage the department?
- What did you recruit for?
- How many did you manage?

BEST: Managed a 20-30 person department that recruited participants for marketing research studies, resulting in a 20% increase in response rate in less than six months

Poor: Duties included social media
Better: Managed social media accounts

- What social media platforms?
- What were your results?

BEST: Managed office social media accounts including Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, and LinkedIn; increasing audience by 30% over the past year

The objective is an optional fragmented statement indicating your career goal or the title of the position you are applying for - this gives the resume a focus.

Degree is bolded and spelled out, not abbreviated as “B.A.” or “Bachelor’s”, with past or expected graduation date listed.

Study abroad information is included if applicable.

Only coursework relevant to your objective is listed.

Experiences are listed in reverse chronological order within a section.

Quantifying the number of individuals supervised (e.g. 14) is given in this bullet example to stand out and show competency.

Each bulleted statement starts with an action verb and ensure all statements under a position are in the same verb tense. The bulleted statements are not complete sentences.

Bulleted action statements highlight relevant skills and experiences that relate to the objective.

Position title is bolded (often but not always) to emphasize what you did rather than where you worked.

Bulleted statements for this position are in the past tense, as it is a previous place of employment (changing verb tenses based on current/past employment status is optional).

Concrete relevant skills are separated by category and are in list form rather than bulleted form.

Resume is visually appealing, with consistency in font size and style, bullet and section spacing, and minimal use of bolding.

Inserting lines to break up sections on a resume is common and a personal choice. Be sure to not overdo line breaks as your resume should still easily flow down the page.

Degrees are Bolded and listed first to emphasize what you studied rather than where you attended.

Providing a G.P.A. is optional. It is a good idea to check whether a job posting requests a G.P.A.

If you provide a G.P.A., include one for each degree listed.

Listing education certifications is a must for many Education programs and degrees. Other certifications (CPR, Lifeguarding etc.) should be listed under Skills.

Each bulleted statement starts with an action verb. Verb tense should be consistent within a position.

Avoid repeating action verbs. “Designed” has already been used in the first Student Teaching position. Utilize the action verb list to find a new option.

Bulleted statements highlight relevant skills and experiences that relate to the objective (e.g. developing lesson plans, implementing behavior system) of obtaining a teaching position.

Providing dates is important (include both month and year); write months out – June 2011 instead of 6/2011.

Position at the bottom of the page should not be separated by a page break.

2-page resumes are acceptable for those with a Master degree and/or relevant experiences.

Never print a 2-page resume front to back. They should always be on separate pages.

2nd page header should include your name and "(page 2 of 2)". This is to ensure others know whose resume page it is if it were to become separated from the first page.

Related Experience highlights positions that are more relevant to your objective and career goals.

Focus on highlighting transferable skills within related position action statements. Transferable skills should continue to support the theme and focus of the resume.

Jobs that are not directly related or relevant to the resume focus can be included in an Employment History section. These positions do not require action statements; they can provide additional employment information and/or demonstrate an individual’s experience in the workplace.

The inclusion of relevant professional affiliations or professional development indicates to future employers that you are dedicated to your career and continued learning.

Well-rounded individuals who are active outside of earning a degree and work have increased marketability when job searching.

Include relevant computer skills. This could include Microsoft Office programs as well as specific software (i.e. databases and programs used in school districts for classroom management).

1. Contact information in the header can be formatted in different ways; most often depending on the available space.

2. It is important to write degrees out correctly. Checking how it is written on a transcript is one way to ensure this information is correct.

3. As this is a marketing resume, the direct experience has been organized under Marketing Experience.

4. Internship experience can be important and a great place to show skill development. Regardless of receiving pay vs. academic credit, this experience is directly related to the resume objective and is placed under Marketing Experience.

5. Action statements are clear and concise while also providing descriptive examples of skills and responsibilities.

6. Volunteer positions that are directly related to the resume objective are also highlighted and described with action statements.

7. These positions provide additional employment information and demonstrate an individual's experience in the workplace.

8. Extracurricular activities, community involvement, and/or volunteer activities provide employers with a glimpse at an individual beyond the workplace. If this area is lacking on your resume, consider becoming engaged with a group or association.

9. Skills highlight abilities in computer software, language(s), or other categories.

A cover letter is a marketing tool that accompanies a resume. It is an opportunity to highlight strengths, show how you can meet the employer’s needs, and convey your enthusiasm, motivation, and sincere interest in the job or internship. It should be concise, attractive, well-written, and focused to the individual position and employer.

Format
- Construct letter in business letter format (i.e. modified block style)
- Keep it to 1 page, with 3 or 4 short paragraphs
- Include your address and the date
- Include an inside address of the person receiving the letter – name, title, employer, and address
- Address your letter to a named individual (i.e. Dear Mr. Smith:); if not included in the posting, this can usually be found on the employers website or by calling their Human Resources department
- Sign the cover letter or if submitting electronically, create an electronic signature using a scanner to insert into the document (most of the College’s multi-function printers also serve as scanners)

Content
- Tailor the cover letter to the employer and position to which you are applying
- State the position or general area of work that interests you
- Cite how you learned about the position
- Mention any contacts or someone who had suggested that you apply (make sure to ask for their permission first)
- Demonstrate that you are the right person for the job by highlighting your skills and experiences without restating your resume
- Select your major selling points and keep your sentences concise
- Think about what is important to the employer; address their needs by referring to the job description
- Describe your special qualities and help the reader form a favorable impression
- Do not lie or exaggerate; let strengths and achievements speak for themselves
- Explain your accomplishments, not what you hope to gain from the job
- Do not begin all sentences with “I”

Appearance
- You should proofread every letter and have others, including the Career Center staff, review your documents
- Never rely solely on spell check - spelling and grammatical errors can cost you the interview
- Print letter on resume paper and send original, if hardcopies are required
- Save your document as a PDF, if submitting electronically
- Font and size should match that of your resume
- Spacing should be even and visually appealing
- Be sure to sign your letter

Not sure what to include in your cover letter?
Look at the qualifications listed on the job description and highlight your related skills and experiences.
COVER LETTER GUIDE

Your Street Address
City, State, Zip Code

Date

Contact Person’s Name
Title
Company, School, Organization
Street Address
City, State, Zip Code

Dear Mr./Mrs./Ms. ___(Add Last Name Only Here)___:

First Section (Generally 2-3 sentences):
State the position or general area of work that interests you. Mention how you learned about the job opening and why you are interested. Also, mention any contacts that might be relevant.

Second Section (This may be more than one paragraph - generally 4-5 sentences each paragraph):
Indicate why you should be considered a candidate and focus on how your skills can fulfill the needs of the company or school. Relate your experiences to their needs and mention results and achievements. Refer to your enclosed resume, but do not just restate what is on it. Tailor the letter to the specific position, demonstrate your knowledge of the employer, and convey your interest in the industry.

Third Section (Generally 3-4 sentences):
Indicate that you will follow up to assure your materials (resume, cover letter, application, etc.) were received. Offer to provide any additional information, which may be needed. Thank the employer for his/her time and consideration. Be sure to include your contact information (phone number and/or email).

Sincerely,

THANK YOU LETTERS

It is proper etiquette to send thank you letters after an interview; however, many people overlook this step. Sending a thank you letter shortly after your interview can set you apart from other candidates allowing an employer to remember the specifics of your meeting. A thank you letter could make a difference in your job/internship search success.

Information to Include

- Highlight key points that were covered during the interview
- Mention any important information you forgot to discuss
- Explain, restate, or clarify any potential misunderstandings (i.e. willingness to relocate, available start date, etc.)
- Focus on something of importance that you discussed during the interview
- Re-emphasize your strengths, accomplishments, and skills
- Take advantage of the opportunity to leave a good impression

Key Points to Writing Thank You Letters

- Keep letters short and simple, not exceeding one page
- Send thank you letter(s) to each interviewer as soon as possible
- Refer to specific points discussed in your interview to help the interviewer remember you
- Show that you were listening by mentioning something that will refresh the interviewer’s memory
- Emphasize your qualifications, especially those most relevant to the position
- Provide any information that was overlooked during the interview or specifically requested by the interviewer
- Express your continued interest and enthusiasm for the position
- Sign your thank you letter in the space above your typed name

Additional Reasons to Send a Thank You Letter

- When someone provides you with job search assistance, refers you to an employer, provides a networking contact, or speaks on your behalf to a prospective employer
- After an informational interview, company visit, or other career exploration activity

Did You Know

Employers say sending a thank you letter can help improve your chances of getting a job offer after an interview? Be sure to write professionally and in a timely manner!

Dear Mr./Mrs./Ms._____(Add Last Name Only)_______:

First paragraph: Thank the interviewer for taking the time to meet with you (mention the date).
Remind him/her of the position for which you interviewed.

Second paragraph: Restate your interest in the position and the company/school/organization. Mention something you learned from the interview or comment on something of importance that you discussed. Again, emphasize your strengths, experiences, skills, accomplishments, and focus on the points that the interviewer considered the most important for the position. Take this opportunity to mention any relevant information that you did not have an opportunity to discuss during your interview.

Third paragraph: Once again, thank the interviewer for their time and consideration. If appropriate, close with a suggestion for further action (if a second interview is a possibility), or mention that you will follow up with a phone call in a few days. Provide your contact information (phone number and/or email) and the hours you can be reached.
